Short CV

My goal is to transform orthopaedic care by the integration of technology to create a future where everyone can enjoy high quality, low cost consistent care even in the most underserved areas of our country. Having completed fellowships under the guidance of world experts in pioneer orthopaedic centers of excellence, I have developed expertise in joint replacements, arthroscopies and ligament reconstructions. My practice interests include joint preservation, joint arthroplasty, deformity correction, trauma and metabolic bone diseases. My private practice has been averaging approximately 2000 outpatient cases and 300 surgical cases per year. I also serve on the editorial board of the Bone and Joint Journal (BJJ) and I have published over 30 peer reviewed papers and book chapters and also made numerous presentations as speaker, moderator and training faculty for various scientific meetings, and hold memberships and fellowships to many prestigious orthopaedic societies and charity foundations. My administrative duties include setting up and managing the joint replacement program and looking at value driven outcomes.
